J. W. DOWNS, Editor and Proprietor
WACO, WEDNESDAY MARCH 25

The Chief urges the formation of a volunteer military company at Comanche. The idea is a good one.

Gen. W. T. Clark, Postmaster at Galveston has resigned. Small merit in such an act, at such a time.

The Comanche Chief says that the prospect of a fine wheat crop was never so good as at present, in Hamilton county.

It is thought that the next Postmaster of Galveston will be in thorough accord with the people of that city.

The Comanche Chief has got a column of "Hamilton Locals." The Chief displays much enterprise, as well as tact. Success to it.

The Mercury advises the directors of the State Fair to prepare for distinguished visitors. Who's coming, Merck?

The Paris Press takes issue with Gov. Coke in his views as expressed in his recent message on a Constitutional Convention.

The Stephensville Empire congratulates the people of the State upon the success of Gov. Coke's financial policy, and pays our Governor a high, but well merited compliment.

The women's war against whisky in Ohio and Indiana has already reduced the revenue from its sales some three hundred thousand dollars. Hurrah for the dimity brigade.

It has been said that yellow fever has again broken out at Shreveport. We are glad to see that the Times emphatically contradicts the report, and says that the city is now very healthy.

The Railroad Company and the citizens of Fort Worth are involved in a discussion as to carrying out the terms of the charter granted to the road, which it—the road—now finds contrary to its interest, and the people insist upon the fulfillment of the terms to the letter. The Democrat is not without hope that a compromise will be effected, which will prove satisfactory to all concerned.

An Age-d Reporter—he must have been of mature years or the Colonel would not have trusted him with such a mission—has been doing the dark places of Houston, and gives us a picture that is nearly all shadow, and deep and dark at that. The sunshine of the Age-s, it is hoped, will dispel the gloom.

The Statesman of the 21st thinks the advent of the Granges, has had a very healthy effect upon the political atmosphere. He thinks both of the great political parties have been effitted by their coming upon the stage. We are not prepared to dispute the conclusion, although the present upheaval of the farmers, is not a political move, yet the presence of the hardy and unselfish workers of the nation, on the stage of action, cannot result in anything but the purifying of the general mass. Viewed in this light, the present farmer's movement cannot fail to result in good, and we trust that we will be able to record a splendid success in this matter, and at no distant day either.

The Empire urges the people of Erath to form Granges. The Empire takes strong ground on the subject, and writes it up with characteristic ability. We quote as follows.

"The Grange movement has not been slow in bringing to light the true cause of dependence and its attending evils.

In the first place, planting lands in an unprepared state; 2nd, a great want of proper cultivation; 3d, an over-reliance in the cotton crop, at the expense of a provision crop, has almost ruined the South. The low price of 1873 has bankrupted a large number of our planters, by exhausting their entire resources, and destroying their credit. We should give the subject deep thought, because upon it hinges the destiny of our nation; 'tis the great lever power that gives life, energy and action in every branch of business.

The great object to be attained by this association, will be a combination of interest, power, sympathy and benevolence; it will have a tendency to unite men more closely in their moral, social and intellectual natures. Their interests, then, will not be a collection of selfish wealth, but pure unalloyed happiness, not for speculation upon the community, but to ameliorate the condition of mankind, and the various possessions that constitute the whole. A properly organized industry, is the only effective mode of supplying the constant requirements of consumers, thereby rendering labor agreeable, and remunerating."

The cattle thieves on the Rio Grande are active, and the good people along that frontier are crying loudly for protection. We question whether any other civilized government on the globe furnishes less protection to its legitimately employed citizens than does this great American, spread-eagle machine of ours. What with Indians, Mexicans and other cut-throat robbers and thieves, it is almost impossible for our borders to maintain even a moiety of the property they have acquired by honest effort, and they hold their lives by a tenuous altogether too shadowy and obscure to be estimated. This state of things calls for vigorous, effective and immediate action on the part of both State and National forces. We hope to see a vigorous campaign inaugurated at an early day, and one that will furnish a lesson of terror to the lawless that will last them for at least a century or so. It is a wonder to us why the sufferers by these stealing and marauding raids do not rise and pursue the perpetrators to their den, and there wreak a terrible vengeance. Their failure to do so either argues weakness or a strong respect for law and order. Either condition or, both alike, entitle them to the protection of the government, and it should be furnished them, and in no stinted measure.

The Attorney-General of Texas is a young lawyer of Waco, but a few years from Alabama. It was the appointment made in accordance with the time honored principles of the Democratic party?—Don't, Commercial

We think it was. The time honored principles of Democracy recognize merit in whomsoever found. It is only carpet baggers who come, not to identify themselves with the country, but simply to get fat from the public crib, that Democracy is opposed to.—For Worth Democrat

The Lampasas Dispatch gives an account of the return of the Horrells, and the late engagement between the sheriff and the band. There seems to be a settled determination upon the part of the citizens of that county to drive the band from the country.

port times, who was a passenger on the ill-fated steamer Southwestern, gives the following particulars as to the origin of the fire:

"There can be but little doubt that the destruction of the Southwestern was the work of an incendiary. The fire originated in the recess between the rear of the cabin, and the cook-house and the chambermaid's room, and immediately against the outside of the cabin. There was no fire of light in the cook-house or chambermaid's room—in fact there were no fires up stairs anywhere, and only a large oil lamp suspended from the center of the roof of the recess. The fire was first discovered by a Mexican woman, who was sleeping in the recess, and the alarm was given by her, but immediately before the alarm one of the lady passengers heard some one pass very hurriedly from the rear of the cabin toward the front.

Thirty-five of the witnesses who had been summoned to New Orleans to testify in behalf of the Grant parish prisoners left New Orleans on the Southwestern for their homes. The government had refused to furnish these witnesses with passage, or to pay them per diem; most of them were poor men, their money was exhausted and the committee of seventy had made arrangements with the Southwestern to take them home for a small compensation, to be paid evidently by the committee. To prevent the boat being imposed on, Mr. Ogden gave the captain a list of those entitled to this kindness; but it seems that Mr. Ogden was in one instance imposed on himself, and in the list of names appeared that of the generally supposed incendiary, a negro politician of Colfax. The evening before reaching Alexandria several of the negro witnesses informed Capt. Jacobs that this fellow had been upraising them for testifying in favor of the whites; the negro was immediately summoned to the office, and on being pointed out to the gentlemen of Rapides and Grant, was recognized by only one man, who said he knew him to be one of the grandest rascals in Grant parish, and a regular white man hater. The fellow was heard to say afterwards that he would have satisfaction, and would revenge himself. His destination was Colfax; he was on board just below there, and was never seen after the fire. He stated on board that he would be a candidate for the Legislature from Grant parish this fall, and he will, in all probability, in the course of a few months, become one of the rulers and law-makers of Louisiana, and a pillar of the Kellogg government.

A TEXAS BEAUTY.—The editorial correspondence of the Baltimore American concludes that Texas ladies are fully up to the average of their sex. In the item of dress, both as to quality, material, trimmings, laces, and all the little et ceteras that go to make up a lady's toilette, they are evidently as expensive to their husbands and fathers as their sisters at the North, and are equally as profuse in the display of fine jewelry, diamonds, chains, bracelets, etc. The dress of a young lady who rode with the gossiping editor through the Texas wilds was a black silk, closely fitting, with sprays of flowers, worked with black beads, across the breast, and slightly over the shoulders. Her dress was close up to the throat, and a stiff, white standing collar, turned down at the points, was enriched by a blue silk scarf, worn precisely as a gentleman wears a cravat, tied in a bow in front. This gave to her fine form an exquisite finish, whilst her clear complexion and the healthy bloom on her cheeks were sufficient to soften the heart of an anchorite.

The new Duke, until lately Marquis of Westminster, is probably the richest man in England. The Governors, of whom the newly elected duke is the head, descended from Gilbert de Grosvener, of whom the heralds tell us that he held in Normandy, before the conquest, the post of chief hunter, under the duke of that province.

The right to a free religious belief in this country has been vindicated at last. At a recent revival in Iowa, all who wanted to go to heaven were required to rise. The entire congregation, with the exception of one boy, immediately rose to the floor. All who wanted to go to hell were requested to rise, and the cry was up in a minute. The church society had the boy arrested for disturbing the meeting, but the court held that if the boy wanted to go to hell he had a right to, and ordered his discharge.

The Stomach's Revenge.
The stomach cannot be treated with impunity. Overload it with food, irritate it with fiery liquors, impair its activity or vitiate its juices by any outrage on the laws of health, and it revenges itself through the liver, the bowels, the kidneys, the brain or the nervous system, and sometimes through all these organs simultaneously, or in succession. There is scarcely any variety of bodily or mental pain or discomfort which it does not inflict upon those who abuse and neglect its powers. Under these circumstances it is not surprising that one medicine which cures the stomach, cures the liver, the bowels, the kidneys, the brain and the nervous system, and with certainty of immediate and permanent relief. The most wholesome and useful of all medicines, and one which is not only beneficial to the stomach, but produces an immediate and most beneficial change in the condition of the patient. The whole digestive system is at once invigorated and cooled, the liver regulated and toned, the bowels relieved of all obstructions, the system cheered, and the relaxed nerves strengthened and steadied.

WOMAN'S HEALTH.

It is a lamentable fact, that from causes not generally understood, female suffering appears to be on the increase. The sweet young girl just entering into womanhood soon becomes pale, feeble, emaciated, lifeless, with headaches, pains and aches, loss of appetite, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, and appears to lose that youthful vim and sprightliness so much admired. The married lady is no less exempt from some troublesome annoyances. She continually grumbles and frets with pains and aches, her secretions are all impaired, her energies are lost, she forces herself into society, she "sours" on almost everybody, her health slowly declines until she becomes a mere drone in her own household. And she as the "turn of life" is no stronger to suffering peculiar to her sex at that age. Habits, customs and inattention surely bring about THESE SAD RESULTS that are now hurrying thousands of females, old and young, to untimely graves. Exercise your reason, your judgment, and procure Dr. Dromgool's English Female Remedy, as they will cure the above female troubles in an incredibly short time. They are prepared by an inexperienced physician, and in the most powerful iron and vegetable tonic known to the medical profession. They are humorously put up in large bottles and sold by druggists and merchants everywhere. Address, J. P. DROMGOOLE, Prop'r., Memphis, Tenn.
